Green Acres Program Provides $3 Million To Buy Mtn. Lakes

Funds amounting to $3 million in grant and loan money have been approved by the state Green Acres program to enable Princeton Township to purchase the Mountain Lakes tract as open space.

Township officials received word last week that the Township will receive a $2.25 million loan, payable over 20 years at a two percent interest rate, along with a $750,000 grant, to purchase 68.4 acres of the 74.5-acre tract for open space. The property is presently owned by Design Interface, the development subsidiary of the Hillier Group, architects and planners. Formal receipt of the monies is contingent on passage of an appropriations bill introduced by the state legislature in June.

The Design Interface proposal last April for a 25- to 30-unit residential development on the property was opposed by environmentalists. They argued that the tract had been designated for open space in the 1980 Master Plan and were successful in persuading the Township to apply for funds for its purchase.

Design Interface purchased the 74.5-acre property last December for $2.3 million. Six acres, including a residence, pool and pool house, were under contract to another purchaser and were therefore not included in the Green Acres application, which at $3 million reflects the Township Assessor's appraisal of rising land costs in Princeton today.

Although Township officials were jubilant last week when the Green Acres loan and grant was announced, they are awaiting word from the Friends of Princeton Open Space as to the success of its fund-raising campaign. Without identifying the individual, Rosemary Blair of the Friends of Princeton Open Space

Planning Board Target of Suit by Owners Of Half of "Blighted" Units on Shirley Ct.

A suit against Princeton Borough and the Princeton Regional Planning Board has been filed by Paul and Helen B. Harvey of Harbourton-Rocktown Road in Harbourton, owners of eight units of Shirley Court, numbers 2-18.

The suit, filed in Superior Court, says the Planning Board designated Shirley Court "blighted" without allowing the plaintiff to present adequate proof to the contrary.

Thomas Olson of McKirdy and Riskin, P.A., Morristown, is the attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Harvey.

The suit characterizes the actions of Mayor and Council — who requested the designation of blight from the Planning Board — and of the Board itself as "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable" and states that these actions resulted in a denial of due process of law.

A designation of blight allows a municipality to exercise its right of eminent domain and acquire the property through condemnation.

The other eight units of Shirley Court are owned by Benjamin and Rose Kahn of Princeton; their property is not involved in the suit.

His Office Buildings on Hold, Developer Will Sue Township

The Township can expect a lawsuit from the developer whose plans to build 129,000 square feet of office space on Bunn Drive were thwarted when Committee reduced the permitted floor-area ratio (FAR) in the area August 25.

Dr. William Lowe, the Chatham physician who is a principal with his wife in Chatham Associates, owner of 17 acres midway up Bunn Drive, said he "had no other choice but to sue" after the Planning Board denied his application for four office buildings last Friday on jurisdictional grounds. Now that the Township has adopted a zoning amendment reducing the permitted FAR from 12 to 8 and 18 to 10 percent, respectively, in the two office-research zones along Bunn Drive, and extended the more restrictive zone to include Dr. Lowe's property, among others, Dr. Lowe will need a variance from the Zoning Board before he can proceed with his present plans.

The application was made under the premise of an FAR of 18 percent — FAR denotes the ratio of building footage to land area and is the principal means of controlling the density of development in a commercial zone. The two provisions of the August 25 zoning amendment combined to reduce the square footage that can be built on Dr. Lowe's tract to 60,000 square feet — a reduction of more than 50 percent.

Dr. Lowe said the Township's decision to change the zoning for his property "caught us by surprise." He characterized it as "very deceiving and very deplorable" of the Township to have taken this action. He said he had been trying to negotiate with the Township since January, but the Township was not interested in talking with him.

He said he had received a letter from former Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike and one from Planning Board Chairman Hans Sander, both, in effect, saying there would be no discussion of any zoning change pending the conclusion of a traffic study. Dr. Lowe said he would retain the firm of Riker, Danzig, Scherer, Hyland and Peretti of Morristown and Newark to represent him in the law suit. "It will be an uphill fight,' he said, "but we were left without any choice."

The Township acted to down-zone the office research area along Bunn Drive at the conclusion of a major traffic study which Committee commissioned Garmen Associates of Montville to conduct last fall. Garmen Associates were asked to assess potential traffic from the building allowable under existing zoning patterns.

Elderly Woman Killed When Hit by Truck At Nassau, John Sts.

An 84-year-old pedestrian was struck and killed by a truck Tuesday morning while she was walking on the Nassau Street sidewalk a few minutes after 11.

Helen W. Turnbull of Meadow Lakes, Hightstown, was pronounced dead at Princeton Medical Center by Dr. Dennis Price at 11:26 — 20 minutes after police responded to numerous calls that a pedestrian had been struck. Police and members of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad and Mercer County Mobile Intensive Care Unit worked feverishly to revive the victim, who was hit at the intersection of Nassau and John Streets, the latter a narrow street separating Talbots and the English Shop. There is no curbing or dropoff where John Street cuts across the Nassau Street sidewalk.

Mountain Lakes

speaks of "a donor who is interested in making possible an acquisition that reflects the desires of the community."

"We are working with attorneys as fast we can," Mrs. Blair says, adding that "certain matters" have to be approved. She also points out that the grant and loan would not be available for perhaps as long as 18 months and that, given 20 percent yearly increase in property values, the price — presumably $3 million — the Hillier organization has indicated it would accept would have a time limit. Rising land cost and the carrying cost to the owner would make it necessary to "intervene" before the Green Acres money would become available, she suggests.

Great Love for Princeton. "From time to time in the life of a community a single individual comes forward to give expression to its deepest hopes and aspirations," Mrs. Blair remarks. She describes the "mystery donor" as a person with great love for Princeton who "makes it possible to acquire this land without burdening the taxpayer. This kind of generosity is very rare, and we do appreciate it."

Mrs. Blair says that land bank programs — she names several across the country — are often precipitated by the action of a single person. She thinks the gift will be the first of many acquisitions to establish a "greenway," primarily in conjunction with the D&R Canal, that will include easements, gifts, and corporate campuses that respect specific land characteristics.

Meanwhile Friends of Princeton Open Space is continuing with its stated goal of raising $250,000 toward the acquisition of the Mountain Lakes tract as a passive recreation area adjoining Community Park North. One cost, not included in the purchase price, is the $500,000 estimated for the repair of the dams that form the three lakes.

Mrs. Blair reports that $60,000 of the $250,000 has been raised to date, and says the "real fund raising effort" is just about to get underway. "We want dimes from Girl Scouts and support from corporations who have moved here because they were attracted by the rural quality of the community."

Grateful to Community. She says she is "grateful" to the many segments of the community that have been involved in the negotiations for the Mountain Lakes tract since the development proposal was first presented to the Planning Board. "The Township has been outstanding," she says, "and the developer has given us time. There has been individual support in terms of gifts, and now this individual really gives it all substance. The good news of the Green Acres loan is also wonderful and very encouraging."

Township Mayor Gail Firestone says that Township Committee will not place on its agenda whether or not to accept the Green Acres loan until it hears definitely from the Friends of Open Space. Township Administrator James Pascale also called the Green Acres loan approval "good news" and described it as "one option" for acquiring the tract for open space.

Still another option, by which the Hillier Group offered to make a gift of 52 contiguous acres of the Mountain Lakes property in exchange for the right to build 30 attached manor houses, seems to have little currency, now that the Green Acres funds have come through and there is promise of a major gift. Mr. Pascale says that the Township was given until November 30 by the Hillier Group to accept or reject this offer.

Accident

No charges have been made against the truck driver, Eddie L. Betts, 34, of Newark, pending the completion of the investigation by Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt and Lt. Peter Hanley. According to Lt. Hanley, the truck Mr. Betts was driving was not a tractor-trailer but "a good-sized truck." It is owned by D. Team of Kearny.

"As far as we know, the victim was alone," Lt. Hanley commented. The truck, he continued, was turning from Nassau into John "when at some point it came into contact with the victim. We don't know how." Weather conditions at the time were dry and clear.

Although he said that he was unable to give the cause of death, Lt. Hanley reported that the victim had suffered extensive internal injuries. A spokesman for the Medical Center listed multiple trauma as the cause.

Tuesday afternoon, police were still in the process of taking statements from the driver and from witnesses, and Lt. Hanley said that no further information would be released until all statements had been taken. "The matter is still under investigation."

The death was the second accident fatality in the Borough this year and the first involving a pedestrian.

A 26-year-old law student, Frederick Woodbridge of Hodge Road, was killed June 16 when his car collided with another car at the intersection of Bayard Lane and Paul Robeson Place and overturned.

Commuter Air Service to Newark Resumes; 38 Flights Weekly from Princeton Airport

Princeton Air Link began commuter air service between Princeton Airport and Newark Airport Tuesday morning.

The official initial flight departed at 9:30 after Montgomery Mayor Donald Matthews broke a ceremonial bottle of champagne across the nose of the gray and red twin-engine Britten Norman Islander. Township Mayor Gail Firestone was also present for the inaugural ceremonies.

The actual first flight departed at 5:40 a.m. without fanfare; the last flight each evening will be at 10.

Three twin-engine aircraft, with a crew of two and a passenger capacity of eight, will make 24 scheduled flights Monday through Friday, and 14 on Sunday, between Princeton Airport and Delta Airlines Gate 67 in Terminal B. Each plane is equipped with electronic navigation equipment and weather avoidance radar. Flying time to Newark is 20 minutes, and the one-way fare is $49.

Princeton Air Link was founded by John S. Hoyt, a Montgomery resident who is himself a pilot and who has had a dual career in finance and aviation management. Mr. Hoyt believes the new air service meets a growing need for fast convenient transportation between the booming Princeton corridor and connecting domestic and overseas flights from Newark International Airport.

Passenger facilities at Princeton Airport include reservations, ticketing and check-in services, a passenger lounge, and free parking. Courtesy car service is available within a five-mile radius of the airport. Ground transportation to and from Newark will be provided if flights are cancelled because of bad weather.

Affiliated with Delta. Princeton Air Link is affiliated with Delta Airlines for ticketing, reservations, baggage handling and ground services at Newark Airport. The shuttle will serve connecting flights on Delta, Eastern, Continental, New York Air, Allegheny Commuter and US Air.

Frequent flyers are offered a free one-way ticket with each seven-ticket book they purchase. There is also a 24-ticket corporate book, which includes the four free tickets.

The new shuttle service was inaugurated despite growing protests from Rocky Hill residents over aircraft noise, particularly from helicopters, over the residential community. Last week, Rocky Hill Mayor Albert M. Robotti asked Montgomery Township to take steps to reduce the noise from Princeton Airport.

In a letter to Montgomery Administrator Peter Rayner, Mayor Robotti suggested that the airport be closed from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. to stop the noise of planes landing late at night. He also asked that the recently opened helicopter training school be closed down and that airport expansion plans be halted.

TOPICS Of The Town

Rocky Hill residents, airport officials and both federal and state aviation officials have been meeting to try to resolve residents' complaints.

According to Richard Nierenberg, owner of Princeton Airport, the source of complaints are overflights that have nothing to do with the operation of the airport itself. Mr. Nierenberg says he has scheduled weekly Thursday morning tours of the airport as a public service and has followed up on complaints from residents whenever possible.

However, Rocky Hill is on the landing approach of most airplane flights into Princeton Airport. The revitalization of the airport under new ownership, combined with the increase in helicopter traffic overflying the area, has increased residents' concern about Rocky Hill air traffic.

According to Andrew MacQueen, operator of the helicopter training school, his helicopter has flown over Rocky Hill only once, 700 feet above the ground, at 80 miles per hour. Like Mr. Nierenberg, he advocates better communication and education as the solution to residents' complaints.

Additional Service. Mr. Hoyt holds open the possibility of establishing addition shuttle service to other airports, once the Princeton-Newark service is established and successful. For several years, until the air controllers strike of 1982 created an opportunity for the former Princeton Airport owner to sell his landing rights at certain airports, there was a shuttle service between Princeton and Boston and Princeton and Washington.

Mr. Hoyt, president and chairman of the board of Princeton Air Link, served with the U.S. Air Force as a pilot and maintenance and engineering officer for seven years before joining the Lockheed Company as assistant to the general manager. In 1972 he founded an electromechanical research and development firm in New York, then began a financial career as a corporate bonds salesman with Shields and Company in 1976. He has also held positions with the First Boston Company, William Sword & Company and with Janney Montgomery Scott Inc., as director of tax and shelter investments.

In addition to financial and administrative responsibilities for Princeton Air Link, he has his own investment banking firm, Hoyt & Associates, primarily serving foreign institutional clients.

Captain Donald T. Rice, a former Pan Am pilot, is Princeton Air Link's executive vice president and director of operations, as well as a member of the board of directors. Capt. Rice began his aviation career in 1942 as coordinator of the civilian pilot training program for the University of Idaho. He joined Pan Am in 1943 and flew a wide range of aircraft from seaplanes to jets. He retired as a captain on the Boeing 737, having served on Pan Am's internal German service based in Berlin.

In 1982 he joined Project Orbis, a non-profit teaching eye hospital and operating theater built into a jet aircraft. The plan flies surgical teams to underdeveloped countries. Capt. Rice was director of operations and responsible for much of the program's business and community relations functions. He is a also a Montgomery resident.

Proposed Bank St. House To Be Discussed Monday

A number of Bank Street residents are expected to attend the Monday meeting of the Borough Historic Preservation Review Committee at 7:30 in Borough Hall.

They have been waiting eight months to see what is expected to be on the agenda that evening: the plans for the house Dr. Anthony Vaselli of Princeton would like to build at 27-29 Bank Street.

The residents' concern with the design of the structure surfaced at a Borough Zoning Board meeting in January when Dr. Vaselli requested a variance for the building.

Although plans weren't available at that time, the residents, fearful that the new house would not fit into the streetscape's Victorian Vernacular architectural style, petitioned the Borough to make Bank Street a fourth historic district. The street became an historic district in the spring.

At first it was thought that, because of the timing, Dr. Vaselli would not need to appear before the Historic Preservation Review Committee. He had however, expressed his willingness to come before the committee even if it were not necessary.

But now, according to Zoning Officer Frank Slimak, he will need to go before the Historic Review Committee because he has not yet filed building plans.

The proposed residence will include a fourth-story penthouse with a lap pool and sun room. Its rooms will be relatively small compared with room sizes in more suburban areas, and there will be an elevator and a removable floor over the garage.

The exterior of the proposed house — the only area of concern to the Historic Preservation Review Committee — will include two garages and two bay windows. It will feature varied elements, including stucco, brick, painted wood on the pediments and detailing, painted wood garage doors, some clapboard siding, and ceramic tile trim.

Mr. Slimak reports that several residents of Bank Street have already visited his office to review the plans. One, who wished not to be idenified, assured a visitor that those residents of Bank Street who are not away will be certain to be present Monday night.

Man on Marcos Estate Wanted in Philippines

A man found at the Princeton Pike estate linked with deposed Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos is wanted in his homeland for allegedly murdering five Marcos opponents.

Orlando Dulay, a former governor of a Philippine province, was found at the 13-acre estate at 3850 Princeton Pike by Mercer County sheriff's officers who were there to inspect the house. The officers visited the estate regularly in the hope of finding a caretaker who could receive a court order allowing the attorneys for Philippine President Corazon Aquino to take an inventory of the house.

discovered that the estate had been emptied of most of its contents.

The property was overgrown with weeds. Several peach trees, which had been eyed by a neighbor for their ripe and luscious fruit, had been denuded.

Dulay told a sheriff's officer that he had been hired by Marcos' attorneys to clean out the apartment above the garage. A governor of the northern province of Qirodo who escaped several months ago from the Fort Bonifacio military camp, he was released by police after questioning. They found no evidence that he stole the furnishings and no official warrants were shown to officials indicating that Dulay is wanted for murder, according to Lawrence Township Detective David Burns.

In a later development, Dulay's passport was revoked and Philippine officials began efforts to get the United States government to deport him, according to a member of the Philippine Embassy.

Township Files Intent With Housing Council

Princeton Township has sent its "letter of intent" to the New Jersey Council on Affordable Housing.

By this letter, the Township in effect transfers its Mt. Laurel decision fair share housing compliance from the court's jurisdiction to the council set up by the state legislature. However, the Calton Homes and Princeton Ridge lawsuits charging the Township with exclusionary zoning and seeking a higher density of development that would include some low and moderate income housing, remain under the jurisdiction of Judge Eugene Serpentelli, the Toms River judge assigned to hear Mt. Laurel lawsuits in this area. Both suits are presently the subject of ongoing settlement discussions, according to Township Attorney Edwin Schmierer.

The letter of intent spelling out the Township's plans for meeting its obligation to provide housing opportunities for low income residents was written by Gerald J. Muller of Miller, Porter and Muller, attorneys for the Planning Board, and endorsed by Township Committee and the Planning Board last week. It was sent to Arthur Kondrup, chairman of the N.J. Council on Affordable Housing (COAH) in time to meet the September 3 deadline.

It notes that the Township is reviewing employment data to determine whether a reduction in the Township's fair share number of 275 units is in order and sets out a time schedule for the preparation of the draft housing element and fair share plan. It also describes the progress that has been made to date under the affordable housing ordinance adopted by the Township in November, 1984.

This includes Princeton Community Housing's proposal for a 280-unit development on the Peterson tract, of which one half the units will be for low and moderate income families. The Township was recently awarded $873,740 in funds allocated by the same legislation which set up the state affordable housing council.

A draft of the municipality's Master Plan housing element and fair share plan must be submitted to COAH by November 4, with a final plan due by January 5. Township staff and the consulting firm Wallace, Roberts and Todd are presently working on a compilation of the data for the housing element and fair share plan, which will be completed by October 16 and presented to the public for review. The draft plan will be submitted to COAH by October 31.

On the basis of public comment and input by the Planning Board's affordable housing committee, housing consultant Alan Mallach, and others, a final housing element and fair share plan will be presented to the public at formal Master Plan hearings, adopted with whatever modifications are appropriate and submitted to COAH by January 4. This housing element and fair share plan must be incorporated into the revised Master Plan, which must be adopted by August 1, 1988.

Ten sheets of sheet rock valued at an estimated $70 were stolen from a construction site at the Tenacre Foundation off The Great Road. The victim is the Bowers Construction Company of Alexander Road.

Approximately $78 in coins was removed last week from a soda vending machine in Larry's Sunoco service station on Nassau Street. The machine had not been forced open and police say they do not know how the entry was made.

———

Two radar detectors were stolen last week from parked cars, one a $300 unit from a 1986 Porsche parked in the rear of the Commodities Corporation on Mount Lucas Road. A driver's side window had been smashed to enter the car, which is owned by a Skillman resident.

A 1986 Mazda parked in the Princeton Shopping Center yielded a detector valued at $245. It's driver's-side window was also broken to gain access to the car. The owner is a resident of Harris Road.

There were two other thefts involving parked cars. Between 1:45 and 2:10 in the morning, someone entered the unlocked car of a Murray Place resident while it was parked last week on Leigh Avenue. Taken was a beige handbag containing the victim's wallet. She lost $100 and credit cards.

A $200 camera and a blouse and skirts worth $46.50 were taken from a car while it was parked for 50 minutes last week in the Community Park pool lot. The thief threw a rock through a window to enter the car owned by a resident of Penn's Neck.

In one of two bicycle thefts, a Sears 10-speed bicycle was stolen from Dayton Hall on the Westminster Choir College campus. The $200 bike had been locked with a chain to a staircase railing but when the owner returned the following day both the chain lock and bike were missing.

A boy's red bicycle with training wheels, valued at $150, was stolen last week from the intersection of Hickory Court and Walnut Lane where the owner, a youth visiting friends on Hickory Court, had left it unattended.

A key to a safe deposit box and a $50 beige dress taken from a closet are missing from a home on Balsam Lane. The items were taken without force between July 4 and August 22 and reported missing two days later by the owner.

Apartment Is Entered; TV and Radio Are Taken

An apartment in the 100 block of Witherspoon Street was entered last week by a thief who stole a television set and an AM-FM cassette radio worth a combined $710.

The intruder first entered an open cellar door, climbed up the stairs and then kicked in a kitchen door to gain access to the interior. Police report the kitchen door had been secured by two bolt locks that gave way. The entry was made between 9:30 Saturday evening and 2:10 the next morning.

An envelope containing a check in the amount of $308 was stolen Thursday evening from an unlocked office in the Nassau Club, 6 Mercer Street.

Capt. Thomas Michaud reported that police have a suspect. A black male, 18 to 19, 5-5 to 5-6 with medium build and short hair was seen near the office at the time of the theft. The check, he said, was a payment made to a company.

A food concession stand operated by the Princeton Recreation Department at Community Park was broken into but a check with the manager revealed nothing was missing.

The door to the stand had been kicked open, Township police said, sometime after 11 in the evening. The entry was discovered the next morning.

Parked Cars Are Target Of Vandals in Borough

Two cars parked last week in the Borough were the target of vandals.

The 1984 Honda of a Princeton resident was vandalized while parked Saturday night in the Tulane East parking yard. The owner, upon returning, discovered several long scratches and several dents in the left rear quarter panel near the trunk.

The name "Sheri Bee" was scratched with a sharp instrument on the hood of a 1985 Plymouth while it was parked last week on Bank Street. Police said the name had no connection with the owner, whom they identified as a Princeton resident.

Placed on Probation After Court Hearing

A North Harrison Street resident was placed on probation following a hearing last week in Township criminal court.

James R. Tkacs appeared before Judge Sydney Souter to answer charges of harassment and criminal mischief. Judge Souter levied no fines but ordered Mr. Tkacs to pay $25 court costs and $30 to the Violent Crime Compensation Board on each charge. He also placed him on probation for a

Stream Corridors Focus Of Township Ordinance

An ordinance protecting stream corridors and flood plains is under consideration in the Township. Drafted with input from Todd Bryan, executive director of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, and from Elizabeth Hutter, a former Planning Board member, the proposed ordinance was discussed last Thursday by the Planning Board and recommended to Township Committee for adoption.

As Planning Director Duggan Kimball notes, in a memorandum accompanying the ordinance from the Zoning Amendment Review Committee (ZARC) to the Planning Board, "stream corridors have special environmental importance and sensitivity which are threatened by increasing development pressures in our region. The protection of stream corridors should be given a high priority because they play an important role in defining the character and quality of life in Princeton."

One purpose of the ordinance is to prevent development on land subject to flooding. Another is to protect the property and existing drainage features, both natural and artificial, from the adverse effects of flooding, erosion, loss of vegetation, seepage and downstream deposits of silt, gravel and stone. It is also designed to protect other municipalities within the same watersheds from improper stream corridor development and to preserve existing wetlands and natural flow patterns of watercourses within the region.

Minimizing the danger to public health by protecting the quality of surface and subsurface water supplies is another stated aim of the proposed ordinance, as is maintaining the ecological balance between wildlife, plant, and marine life.

The ordinance defines the various components of a stream corridor — stream channel, floodway, wetland, flood plain, critical slopes and buffers — not all of which are found along every stream. It incorporates a schedule for determining the width of buffer strips to protect these components along streams of varying widths, from the Millstone River and Stony Brook, to smaller streams like Harry's Brook and Mountain Brook, to intermittent streams that are not shown on federal flood plain maps.

The ordinance prohibits certain activities, such as cutting and clearing of trees, or altering the watercourse, or regrading the natural contours, or building structures larger than 100 square feet within these stream corridors. The ordinance is lengthy and complex, in part because of the need to incorporate the existing flood ordinance required by the Federal Flood Insurance Program.

Township Mayor Gail Firestone voted against the ordinance at the initial discussion at the Planning Board last week, because she felt more discussion was needed of its complicated provisions and because she felt it might be unfair to homeowners who may wish to remodel existing homes close to streams. Mr. Kimball

PU Student Is Located; Missing Since February 3

A Princeton University senior, last seen in Princeton February 3, has been found and reunited with his parents in Essex Junction, Vt.

The subject of a nationwide search, Shashi Ramakrishna, 21, was tentatively recognized in August in Troy, N.Y. by a former classmate doing graduate work at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. The student then wrnte a member of the Princeton University faculty that he had seen someone who resembled the missing student in the RPI student union building.

After the faculty member informed university security, a security officer traveled to Troy and confronted Ramakrishna. When asked for identification, Ramakrishna confessed to the officer that he was relieved that he had been found.

During his absence, Ramakrishna had worked at odd jobs in Arizona, Florida and New York.

Until his discovery, the only clue officials had of Ramakrishna's trail was an unpaid bill from a motel in Phoenix, Ariz. By the time the motel was notified, however, Ramakrishna was gone.

Although he said he is not sure when, Ramakrishna reported that he plans to return to Princeton University to finish his degree. He was scheduled to have graduated this spring with a degree in aerospace engineering.

When questioned, Ramakrishna replied that he was not sure why he had left school to live the life of a vagabond. He added that there was one big thing and a lot of little problems, but declined to elaborate.

The council has many active committees working in specialized areas during the year. The annual meeting provides an opportunity to bring together the entire network of people involved in human services.

The meeting will feature a celebration of the council's 40th anniversary, a presentation on the effects of area population growth and changing demographics on area human service needs, and awarding of the council's annual Citation for Distinguished Volunteer Leadership. A brief business meeting will feature the annual election of directors and officers.

Nominations from the floor may be made, provided they have been submitted in writing by Friday to the Secretary, Board of Directors, P.O. Box 298, Princeton Junction, 08550.

The public is encouraged to attend the meeting to learn about how to become involved in the myriad of community service opportunities. The buffet luncheon, which is being catered by Chuck's Spring Street Cafe, will cost $8.

Road Repair Continues to Cause Problems Getting from Here to There in Princeton

There's good and bad news from the plethora of public agencies responsible for repairing the roads in and around Princeton.

First the good news: The reconstruction of Paul Robeson Place is expected to be completed in two weeks, according to Borough Engineer Carl Peters.

Mr. Peters said that it is unlikely any further major road work in the Borough will begin until after the first of the year. When it does begin, however, the work will cover a fair amount of the central business district. So traffic tie-ups caused by road repair should be considered a Princeton fact of life.

There will be occasional street closings in the Borough over the next few months in order to repair sewer lines. Mr. Peters said that Lilac Lane, Wiggins Street, Chestnut Street, and Library Place will be the site of such repairs in the very near future. At the moment, Moore Street is shut down between Wiggins and Houghton.

On the negative side, the work on Route 206 from Green Avenue in Lawrenceville to Leigh Avenue in Princeton is not expected to be completed until December. The state Department of Transportation (DOT) project will cover 4.7 miles of heavily traveled roadway.

State DOT spokesperson Debbie Lawler said that sections of the road will go down to one lane in the weeks and months ahead. Attempts will be made to confine this alternate one-lane traffic to the hours between 9 and 3:30, she added.

The state will change the center lane currently heading south on Route 206 from just before Birch Avenue to Paul Robeson Place into a "turn only" lane. The lane will no longer be available for through traffic, but will be used for left-turns-only from the two opposing lanes. Arrows will mark the turn sites.

Residents who have been inconvenienced by the repairs being done on the Carter Road bridge will be happy to know that work on the bridge is scheduled to be completed this week, according to Mercer County Engineer Donald Harney.

The bridge will open with new height and weight restrictions: ten feet and ten tons.

Over in Somerset Country, Senior Bridge Engineer Richard Strizky reports that the Washington Street bridge in Rocky Hill will close next week and not reopen until July, 1987.

Traffic will be detoured onto River Road, to Route 27, through Laurel Avenue, to the Kingston-Rocky Hill Road, and back to Route 518 at Rockingham.

And, lest we forget, the Harrison Street Bridge remains closed. Its opening date? Indefinite, to say the least.

West Windsor's consulting engineer, Elmer Bergman, says that work on Alexander Road from Route 1 to the Princeton-West Windsor border at the canal has already begun. One lane of traffic will continue to be open each way, with the exception of one or two days when the crews will be working on the "S" curves. Then there will be only one lane open, with traffic alternating.

He feels there shouldn't be a traffic tie-up due to trucks involved in construction and says the traffic situation will not be any different than it is today, with two lanes open.

Mr. Bergman gave Thanksgiving Day as the targeted completion date for the work on the Princeton side of Route 1.

munities. The council is funded by the United Way-Princeton Area Communities, and acts as its planning associate.

During the past year, the council's activities have included implementation and expansion of Program Assistance with Insurance and Resources for Seniors, publication of a brochure for parents entitled "School-Age Child Care: Making the Right Decision for Your Child," a forum for school-age child care providers, a survey of transportation services provided by area agencies and organizations, and publication of new editions of the "Volunteer Opportunities Directory" and the "Child Care Directory."

The council also provides information and referral services.

State Plans New Center In Washington Crossing

The Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) has announced plans to establish a state Center for Natural and Historic Interpretation in Washington Crossing Park.

According to Helen C. Fenske, assistant commissioner for natural resources, the center's major effort will be to provide professional, technical and general support and assistance to the 42 volunteer "Friends of the Parks" organizations that provide special programs in state-owned sites and facilities.

There are 21 state-owned and operated historic parks and villages and about a dozen environmental interpretive centers in the state park system. Last year they were visited by nearly two million people.

Friends of the Parks groups are non-profit organizations which raise funds and help preserve and interpret historic sites they care about. Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society and Rockingham Association are two such groups which have taken on the Clarke House on the Princeton Battlefield and Washington's summer of 1781 headquarters, respectively, as their special responsibility.

According to Mrs. Fenske, the new center and its staff will work with the Friends of the Parks organizations to enlarge interpretive programming throughout the state park system.

Library Invites Authors To Register for Listing

The Friends of the Princeton Public Library have announced an October 1 deadline for authors to register for listing in the Friends' 25th Anniversary Directory of Princeton area authors. The directory, which is funded by a donation from United Jersey Bank, will be distributed to the public at the Friends' Anniversary Celebration, "Author! Author! Writers Meeting Readers," Sunday, November 2, 2-5 p.m., at the Princeton Public Libary.

More than 200 area authors have registered with the Friends at the Public Library since April. The committee hopes to compile as complete a list of area authors as possible before the directory goes to press on October 1. Author registration forms are available at the library and Micawber Books, 108 Nassau Street.

Rita Fischer is designing the layout for the directory, which will include Henry Martin's theme drawing for "Author! Author!" Therese Critchlow, a committee member representing the library staff, is coordinating resource materials. Joan Hall and Eric Greenfeldt of the library staff are implementing technical aspects of the author listing.

Members of the committee for "Author! Author!" are Samuel Arnold, Nathaniel Burt, Joan Carris, Margaret Considine, Richard Couper, Therese Critchlow, Rita Fischer, Logan Fox, Eugene Frank, Barbara Freedman (co-chair), Landon Jones, Henry Martin (co-chair), William McCleery, John McPhee, Harry Sayen, Ralph Schoenstein, Janice Stonaker, Alan Williams; ex-officio, Irene Farley, Robert Staples.

AUTHOR! AUTHOR! Committee members planning the Friends of the Princeton Public Library 25th Anniversary Directory invite area authors to register before October 1 and join the more than 200 authors already included in the directory. From left, in front are Henry Martin, co-chair and Therese Critchlow, and in back are Barbara Freedman, co-chair and Rita Fischer. (Larry French photo)

Parenting Classes Set At Resource Center Here

Forty parenting classes will be offered this fall at the Family Resnurce Infant Center, which is located in the United Methodist Church on Nassau Street.

They will cover such topics as children's fears, spacing of children, and mothering more than one.

Also available at the center are a playgroup for two-year-olds and parent discussion groups.

Registration will take place Tuesday and Wednesday, September 16 and 17, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the United Methodist Church. For further information, call 924-2167.

Childbirth Review Classes Scheduled by Hospital

Childbirth review classes for parents who are expecting another child will begin on Tuesday at 7 in the Valley Road School.

Sponsored by The Pathways Through Parenthood Program of Princeton Medical Center, this series of three classes will review breathing and relaxation techniques. It will also present ideas for preparing siblings for the new baby and offer a tour of the Medical Center's maternity department.

For further information, call The Department of Education of the Medical Center, 734-4570.

Program Is Expanded At Educational Clinic

The Educational Therapy Clinic of Princeton begins its 20th year with two new features: a Study Den for elementary and high school students and evening tutoring hours for adults.

The Study Den, which will meet late afternoons, is geared to the solving of homework and study problems. These might include organization, coping with written assignments, tests, grammar and math review, taking notes, or simply getting started.

Adult tutoring needs vary from literacy training, to skill review and advancement, to preparation for graduate level tests.

All students receive one-to-one instruction. Enrollment is limited.

The Educational Therapy Clinic's Independent Preparatory School continues to accept and teach able students of any age and grade who function poorly because of dyslexia or related learning disorders.

For information and registration, call 924-4663.

Dance Program Offers Youth and Adult Classes

The Princeton YMCA begins its Fall Dance Program with a wide range of classes for both the energetic youth and eager adult.

Youth classes for children ages 4-12 will be offered in beginner to intermediate ballet and in tap and jazz.

The adult dance class includes an introduction to classical ballet, an extensive jazz warm-up, and brief routines focused on a variety of music and jazz styles.

Registration for fall classes will be held September 2 through 7 at the YMCA on Paul Robeson Place. More information may be obtained by calling 924-4497.

Convenience, Reliability At Custom Mail Courier

"We're here to give Princeton people the kind of delivery service they deserve — professional and efficient," explains Peter Schwartz, president of the newly organized Custom Mail Courier, located at 301 North Harrison Street in the Princeton Shopping Center. "I'm very service-oriented," he adds. "We're not selling a product other than this service. We'll give people the kind of service they need."

Custom Mail Courier was created when Mr. Schwartz purchased Princeton Mail Service last July and merged it with his same-day delivery service, National Courier.

FAST DELIVERY SERVICE that is economical and reliable is the goal of Custom Mail Courier at the Princeton Shopping Center. June Carnes Lucas, general manager, and Peter Schwartz, president, are enthusiastic about the many services of their new company.

The new company, with its two divisions, will offer a broad range of services, including overnight and same-day delivery service, private mail box rentals with 24-hour access, free phone-in to check for mail, use of the copy machine in the lobby (24-hour access), packaging and gift wrapping, pick-up and delivery of mail, access to the FAX machine (electronic mail), sale of cartons, supplies and direct mail items and $100 worth of free insurance and only 30% thereafter for each $100.

It's a far cry from the days of the Pony Express, but in a sense the idea of "getting it there" as fast as possible is very similar. In the speeded-up, high-tech world of today, there are just more options and possibilities. One does not have to rely on the U.S. Post Office as the main delivery resource.

Convenience and Ease. "We offer convenience and ease to the customers," says Mr. Schwartz emphatically. "We are often less expensive than the post office, and also, we don't have the long lines and parking problems that the post office has. Our service is convenient and easy. We even plan to have new shipping forms which the customer can take home and fill out at leisure and then bring in with the package and not have to spend additional time with a form."

Princeton is an ideal location for such a delivery service, reports Mr. Schwartz, who "had a marketing survey done to see if a priority message service was necessary in this area. The response was very positive. This area is growing. It's hot, and there is definitely a need for this service. We're in a good spot, too. The shopping center is a good location. The parking's easy, and people can do other shopping, too."

Customers, who have been providing Mr. Schwartz with a steadily growing business, ship all kinds of things, he says. From china to manikins to trunks to dentures, all shapes and sizes have been shipped by the delivery service. Seventy percent of customers do their own packing (in varying degrees of proficiency), and "we do 30%. For just a little extra cost, we'll pack it properly."

Mr. Schwartz also intends to add a gift wrapping service which will be handled by general manager (and Mr. Schwartz's fiancee) June Carnes Lucas. "I feel there was a need for this," says Ms. Lucas. "Sometimes people send gifts in a box but unwrapped. And not all stores gift-wrap anymore. We'll have bows, ribbons and lots of different sized boxes, as well as different kinds of paper and special decorations to go with the bows. Prices will range from $2 to $5."

The customers run the gamut from grandmothers to corporate executives, and this variety provides Mr. Schwartz with one of the most rewarding aspects of his work. "I enjoy meeting the people — the range of customers is intriguing. I'm a people person, and I like doing something for them."

Shipping Background. "My whole background has been in transportation," he continues. "My Dad owned a trucking business, and I've been in shipping all my life. I've seen a big change in the way shipping is done. Speed is the major change. Next-day service came into being some 15 years ago, and everything was speeded up."

Now, Mr. Schwartz has carried that step even further with the Custom Mail Courier same-day service. Important papers often are the focus of this service, and Philadelphia and New York, with points between, frequently the destination. But Custom Mail Courier will ship your package anywhere and guarantee same-day delivery. As Mr. Schwartz says, "If something has to get somewhere the same day, even if it's California, we'll get it on a plane and have someone go with it and hand deliver it. In addition, we'll pick up at the customer's home, if necessary. You don't even have to leave home to ship. This is a 24-hour service, too. People can call us at 3 a.m. and someone will be dispatched."

Prices depend on destination and weight. Regular delivery service (one to seven days) can go from $2.50 up to $35. Same-day service starts at $15 and goes up to $130 depending on where it has to go. Mr. Schwartz notes that by using all of the major carriers that provide priority service, his company will be able to pass substantial savings in both same-day and overnight delivery services on to the general public. "What we have put together here" he says, "is a true, one-stop mailing and shipping service."

Everyone can benefit from his service, believes Mr. Schwartz, from the businessman who needs a Princeton address via the mail box rental (with a street address, not just a P.O. box number), to the mother sending her away-from-home student a "survival" kit, to the busy executive requiring same-day delivery of urgent information.

"We are a custom mail service," says Mr. Schwartz. "We customize the service to suit the needs of the customer. If something has to be shipped, people know that they can come here and their package will be delivered quickly, safely and economically."

Hours for Custom Mail Courier are 9-6 Monday-Thursday, until 8 Friday and 10-4 Saturday.

Bright and Breezy Look Sets Tone at Freestyle

"Everything goes from function to fashion," says Ronald Rockman, owner of Freestyle, the new surf shop at 10 Hulfish Street and Palmer Square East. "We sell items for function, for surfing and skateboarding, for instance," he continues, "and these items fall easily into the fashion category."

Freestyle is a surf shop emphasizing surf-related sportswear, explains Mr. Rockman. "Within the surfing industry, there is a strong collection of brands which lend themselves to the lifestyle of the beach."

Princeton is an excellent location for such a store, he adds. "It's a combination of factors. The university is a strong part. The population here has so many student-aged people involved in activities. And Princeton is an activity-minded community. People make time for activities here."

Although the shop has only been open since May 30, Mr. Rockman already feels encouraged by the response. "There have been good signs," he reports. "Princeton is a beautiful town with a lot to offer and a lot of quality. Of course, it takes time for people to know we're here, but Palmer Square is a great location with lots of people walking in."

With his two brothers, Bruce and Spencer, Mr. Rockman is a partner in three similar shops, World Cup in the Quaker Bridge Mall and two other stores in central and northern New Jersey.

Sports-oriented shops not only suit Mr. Rockman's and his brothers' taste and interest, but the timing is right for these types of shops. People are active, more informal, today, and the clothes reflect this.

A Sports Lover. "I'm interested in all sports," says Mr. Rockman, who especially enjoys playing soccer. "My brothers and I are all strongly involved in sports, both participating and watching. This seemed to be the right field for us. We've always been interested in business. We all drove Good Humor trucks when we were in college, and we are also fortunate with our timing. People are interested in sports now and this type of store."

Freestyle's tone is casual, bright and breezy, and the shop contains a variety of merchandise, including fleecewear, shorts, slacks, shirts, athletic shoes and wet suits. The bulk of the clothing is geared to men, but women will find shorts, tops, bathing suits and athletic shoes. Also, Mr. Rockman reports that women are purchasing many of the men's shirts to wear themselves.

THE CUSTOMIZED SKATE BOARD: Ronald Rockman, owner of Freestyle at Hulfish Street and Palmer Square East, shows off one of the shop's skate board specialties. A "Mike McGill" by Powell Peralta, it is an example of the bold and colorful boards available at the store.

Cotton sweaters have been a very big item this summer, and continue to be very popular, he points out. Merona is much in demand, selling for $52.99. Bright, bold prints have been the look for the summer, and everyone has responded enthusiastically to the colorful new look.

"Sportswear styles certainly do change," explains Mr. Rockman. These colorful prints are very strong right now. They came in quickly and strongly and haven't faded. They're fun, and men have liked them, too, along with everyone else. I think patterns are here to stay, but we'll probably see more solids and panels later on. Cotton is the dominant fabric in our industry."

Name Brands. Freestyle carries such brands as Gotcha, Ocean Pacific, Quicksilver, Jimmy'z, Instinct, Catch-It, Reebok and Converse. There are sizes for kids in all areas ("We fit everyone," says Mr. Rockman) including Converse shoes.

Equipment such as surf boards, skim boards and skate boards, is also available and the last is an especially big item. "The skate boards are particularly popular with kids," says Mr. Rockman, "and teenagers are especially enthusiastic customers. Our skate boards are customized. They're generally sold as components, and it's not uncommon to spend up to $100 for the complete board."

Freestyle also offers a range of accessories, such as costume jewelry, watches, sunglasses, key chains and colorful wallets. Prices range from $11.99 and $13.99 for T shirts, $40 for slacks and tops, $40 and up for sweaters, up to $159.89 for wet suits. There are still some items at 20% and 40% off left from Freestyle's summer sale, says Mr. Rockman. A lot of the fall merchandise is in, too, and there are always ongoing specials. "For example, right now, we're giving a free gym bag worth $14 with every purchase of Reebok shoes."

———

Enthusiasm and optimism describe Mr. Rockman's attitude both toward Freestyle's future and to his commitment to his work. "It's a very nice feeling to know I'm doing something well," he says. "I have a philosophy in life. Everything has its political side and its economic side. The key thing is to have a nice quality of life, and, of course, financial freedom can help you do this. Most important is to do something you like and do it well, and the rest falls into place."

There's a warm welcome at Freestyle. The door is open, the beat of the music is contemporary, and the look is casual and carefree.

Activities for Reopening Of Nassau Inn Queried

To the Editor of Town Topics:

What has our community done to find itself subjected to the dreary, bush-league hype reported in your story on the remodeled tap room of the Nassau Inn?

The appealing ambience of the old Nass bar was established by amiable bartenders and cheerful waiters, like Connie of sainted memory, not "marketing directors" or "administrators of sales."

Is some bumpkin Donald Trump or a predatory Leona Helmsley to take over our once revered watering hole?

Good Samaritans Help In Bicycle Accident

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to thank with all my heart those two ladies and one gentleman who helped me last Friday in such a gracious and sacrificial way when I was thrown from my bike into the traffic on Mountain Avenue.

Since I could locate only one of the ladies so far, I would appreciate it if the other two Samaritans would make themselves known to me so that I can thank them for taking the time to assist me back to Elm Court.

Space Still Available In Aerobics Classes

The Recreation Department is still accepting registration for Lani Morrison's Aerobic Expression morning classes.

Because of the adaptability of this program, all ages are welcome. Aerobic Expression (which was developed by the instructor, Lani Morrison), allows for personal preference in activities as one progresses at one's own rate.

The morning session (which extends through October 15) consists of two separate classes from 9-10 and 10:15-11:15. These classes meet Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at the Suzanne Patterson Center behind Borough Hall.

The cost is $21 for Princeton residents and $42 for non-residents. Registration forms are available in the Recreation Office. For additional information, call 921-9480.

Museum Plans Reception To Recruit Volunteers

People are needed who have an interest in archaeology/ethnology, cultural history, science, public relations, and hospitality. The positions include teaching, working with collections, conducting surveys, hosting receptions and selling. There are no formal requirements.

Refreshments will be served and volunteers presently working at the museum will be on hand to answer questions and enlist new people.

itation — are included in the Borough's affordable housing program. Bonding for the $6 million program will not be affected by the suit, says Borough Attorney Walter Bliss. This is because Shirley Court was not named as security for the bonds — "deliberately" said Mayor Sigmund.

An appraisal of Shirley Court was recently done by Realtor Karl Light. The Borough has not divulged the amount because, according to Mr. Bliss, it could impede negotiations for the purchase of Shirley Court from its two owners.

Should these negotiations break down, the suit will definitely hold up the ability of the Borough to commence condemnation proceedings on the eight units of Shirley Court owned by Mr. Harvey. It will have no effect on the property owned by the Kahns.

Mr. Bliss called the suit "without basis." He said the action of the Planning Board will be upheld and that all procedures followed were pursuant to statute.

The Borough attorney said he planned to sit down with Planning Board Attorney Allen Porter to see what steps need to be taken to resolve the case as quickly as possible.

The attorneys have 20 days in which to file their answer to the complaint in Superior Court.

The Planning Board is expected to address the subject of the Borough affordable housing program again in a meeting scheduled for Wednesday, September 3. The first agenda item will deal with a change in the Master Plan status for the Hamilton Avenue segment of the project.

Zoning Lawsuit

The study demonstrated what the Planning Director for Borough and Township, the Township Engineer and members of the Planning Board had come to suspect — that the two-lane road system would not be able to handle the amount of traffic generated by office buildings permitted under present zoning. Deciding that to widen the roads to four lanes and make other traffic improvements, such as traffic signals and turning lanes, would alter the character of Princeton, planners decided instead to reduce the size of office buildings.

The standard in the Township code for figuring the parking spaces required by an office development is five spaces for each 1,000 square feet of office space — a standard that is more often relaxed by making some of those spaces "deferred parking." The Chatham Associates office development of 129,000 square feet of office space would require 645 parking spaces, under this standard — 645 cars entering and leaving at rush hour, in addition to delivery trucks.

Dr. Lowe purchased three tracts, including a three-acre parcel across Bunn Drive from the area he intended to develop, for more than $600,000 in June, 1984. He hired the Hillier Group, architects and planners, to develop a plan for the property, and Van Note Harvey to be the engineers. He retained Jamieson, Moore, Peskin and Spicer to represent him in the approval process.

A proposal for 15 office buildings of various sizes was presented as a concept to the Planning Board in October, 1985. At the time, Planning Director Duggan Kimball noted the severe constraints of the site to development. He also voiced what he called "the increasing concern of the staff" about the ability of the circulation plan (roads) to handle the intensity of development in the area.

FAR Reduction Discussed. Mr. Kimball said at the time that a reduction in the FAR was being discussed at the staff level but added that no recommendations were being made, pending the conclusion of the Garmen traffic study and the Master Plan re-evaluation. There was open discussion among Planning Board members present about whether or not to reduce the FAR right away, without waiting for the traffic study. At the end of the meeting, the developer was requested to concentrate the proposal into three or four larger buildings and to return to the Planning Board for a concept review of a revised plan.

Chatham Associates opted not to return for a concept review, but instead filed a plan with the Planning Board in May for four office buildings totalling the same 129,000 square feet. The proposal was reviewed by the Site Plan Advisory Board in June.

Biggest Tomato Contest

The Recreation Department is sponsoring a Prize Princeton Tomato Contest for tomatoes grown in the Township or Borough. Those who think they have a tomato plump enough to win the grand prize may come into the Recreation Office with the entry.

The tomato will be weighed and its measurements recorded. A winner will be announced in late September. The deadline to enter is September 12.

Contestants may enter more than one tomato. The tomato must be home grown in Princeton soil. For additional information, call the Tomato Hotline at 921-9480.

The developer agreed to construct at his own cost the portion of Stuart Road which would be used by his project and to pipe excess storm water across Bunn Drive to the detention basin used by Princeton Community Village. He also agreed to enlarge and maintain that basin at his own expense.

At least one member of that body raised questions about the suitability of the ridge site for development, citing surface drainage and run-off issues, the problems presented by the large number of boulders and the potential need for blasting. However, the application was classified as "major" and referred on to the Planning Board.

Under land use law, the Planning Board has 90 days on which to act on an application once it is deemed complete, or it must grant approval. By cancelling one meeting and rescheduling Chatham Associates for an extra meeting after the Township had formally adopted the zoning amendment, the Planning Board was able to take up the application under the new zoning and just before the time had run out.

Two court stenographers were on hand last Thursday as the matter came before the Planning Board, one retained by Chatham Associates and the other by the Planning Board. Planning Board attorney Allen Porter explained that the amendment enacted by the Township August 25 changed the boundary lines and the applicable floor-area ratio so that the Chatham Associates property was now in OR 1 with an FAR of 8 percent. He said he had advised Chatham Associates attorney Kevin Moore that the application was no longer within the jurisdiction of the Planning Board, because it would have to be heard by the Zoning Board of Adjustment for a variance.

Mr. Porter said that action by the board formalizing the lack of jurisdiction would be appropriate. Mr. Moore intervened to ask whether the zoning ordinance had been filed with the Mercer County Planning Board, knowing that such filing is one signal of whether or not the ordinance was in effect. Mr. Porter said it had been hand-delivered that morning.

A motion was made and seconded to deny the application for lack of jurisdiction. The vote was unanimous, and Dr. Lowe and his entire retinue of architects, lawyers, and engineers rose and exited the room.

Annual Plowing Match At Living History Farm

Howell Living History Farm's third annual plowing match and animal traction exhibition will be held Saturday.

Old-time teamsters from New Jersey and neighboring states will gather at the farm from 9 to 4 to hitch their work horses and oxen to plows, wagons and other equipment used to operate the 126-acre, circa-1900 farm. Visitors may watch five different field and driving competitions, participate in a novice plowing match, and meet ¾-ton work horses and ton-plus oxen face to face. Admission is free.

New Jersey State 4-H oxen Spot and Speck will join forces with Howell oxen Duke and Lion in a "history applied" exhibition at noon. This will illustrate how America's farming past is being used to help third-world farmers improve crop production. Afterwards, there will be ox-pulled wagon rides for children.

Throughout the day, there will be a children's craft program, corn roasting, horseshoe pitching, and self-guided touring. Picnicking is permitted. Dogs are not allowed on the premises, with the exception of seeing-eye dogs.

Howell Farm is located on Valley Road, one mile east of the Belle Mountain Ski Area in Hopewell Township.

Two area residents have been honored by the State University of New Jersey with the Presidential Award for Outstanding public Service.

The two are Don M. Gottfredson, professor of criminal justice and former dean of the School of Criminal Justice in Newark, and Salah El-Shakhs, professor of urban planning and policy development and former director of the School of Urban and Regional Policy in Piscataway.

Prof. Gottfredson, of Princeton Junction, is an international leader among criminal justice scholars. Nominated for the award because of his "long-standing service to governments and to national and international societies and agencies," he was dean of the State University's School of Criminal Justice from 1973 until July of this year, when he resigned to return to the faculty.

Prof. El-Shakhs, 66 Deer Path, was honored for his "extraordinary record of public service" through which he has focused attention on "international issues of demography, urbanization and population change, developmental strategies and urban futures, and environmental policy."

Born in Egypt, he has been a Rutgers faculty member since 1969. He chaired the State University's Committee on Middle Eastern Studies from 1973 - 82, and was director of the School of Urban and Regional Policy from 1981 until June of this year.

Gerd Faltings, a professor of mathematics at Princeton University, has won a Fields Medal, the closest equivalent in mathematics to a Nobel Prize. He is 32.

Prof. Faltings is one of three receipients of the prestigious prize, which is awarded every four years by the International Mathematical Union to "young" mathematicians, traditionally defined as under 40. The prizes for breakthroughs in number theory and topology were awarded at the University of California at Berkeley as mathematicians from all over the world gathered for an International Congress.

The breakthrough for which Dr. Faltings won the prize has been described as "one of the great moments in mathematics." He proved a 60-year-old theorem in number theory that most mathematicians thought could not be proved with the tools of modern mathematics. His work is said to give a way to answer basic questions about finding solutions to certain kinds of equations.

The Fields Medal was established 50 years go by a Canadian mathematician, John Charles Fields, who was disturbed by the lack of a Nobel Prize in mathematics.

James R. Thompson Jr., of Lake Lane, will leave his post as deputy director for technical operations at the Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory this fall to return to work for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

A former NASA employee who was granted a leave of absence from PPL earlier this year to serve on the team investigating the Challenger disaster, he will become director of the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala. As director, he will be in charge of some 3,300 NASA employees and will oversee the redesign of the space shuttle's solid rocket boosters. He will be in charge of some 3,300 NASA engineers.

In addition, Mr. Thompson will oversee space station payload projects and programs to foster payload deployment cooperation between the U.S. and Euoropeans, among other projects. He spent more than 20 years with the space agency before resigning in 1983 to accept the position of deputy director for technical operations at PPL.

Three area residents are enrolled in the fall semester of classes at Western Maryland College, Westminster.

They are, Andrew S. Geller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin H. Geller, 191 Jefferson Road; Heidi L. Subjack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Subjack, 31 Journeys End Lane;

Prayer Vigil Planned For Victims of AIDS

The Metropolitan Community Church of Christ the Liberator in Princeton will sponsor a 50-hour prayer vigil this weekend.

The vigil will be held in the chapel of Nassau Presbyterian Church, beginning Friday evening at 6 and continuing through Sunday at 8 p.m. It is one of some 200 prayer vigils being planned by Metropolitan Community churches around the world for those whose lives have been touched by Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, commonly known as AIDS.

According to the Rev. Eleanor C. Nealy, pastor of the area Metropolitan Community Church, those who are planning the vigil hope to reach people with AIDS and AIDS-related disorders, their families, friends, co-workers and caregivers, as well as anyone else who is concerned with the current AIDS crisis. The emphasis is on pastoral care.

As stated in a press release from the church, "This vigil of prayer is not about lifestyles. (Participants) are not being asked to condemn or condone anyone's sexual orientation, beliefs or practices. This vigil of prayer is about human pain and suffering, grief and loss, with which (everyone) can indentify.

Metropolitan Community Church of Christ the Liberator has invited churches from all over the state to participate as a community of faith in prayer for God's healing power and guidance as the church works to help itself and others face the crisis of AIDS-related diseases and the accompanying fear, panic and anxiety.

Organist Will Be Feted For 25 Years at Church

John Peck, organist for the Lutheran Church of the Messiah for 25 years, will be recognized on Sunday, September 21, with a musical celebration at the church.

The celebration will begin at 4 with a program of organ selections by Mr. Peck, followed by a vespers service, which will focus on the role of music in the life of the church. Members and friends of the congregation are invited.

The service will include performances by the Messiah Choir and by soloist Robert Rooks, who was choir director of Messiah at the beginning of Mr. Peck's tenure. A reception will be held in the church undercroft immediately following the service.

Mr. Peck studied at Mars Hill College in Mars Hill, N.C., and at Baylor University in Waco, Tex. He was trained as a librarian of Westminster Choir College from 1959 to 1983. A past president of the Central New Jersey chapter of the American Guild of Organists, he served as organist for a variety of denominations before coming to Princeton.

Class of '90 Has Record Low Number of Pupils As New School Year Begins at Princeton High

The 1986-87 school year has begun with a record low number of students in the freshman class at Princeton High School — 75 fewer than last year.

The significance of this — and of the final enrollment figures as they are tallied by Princeton Regional — will give the town some clue to the future school enrollment picture.

Last year, there were about 2,360 students in the public schools, approximately a hundred more than the Princeton Long-Range Plan had anticipated. The plan, "Princeton — a Place for Learning," was prepared in 1983 by the Long Range Plan Development Committee. It projects that the number of students in Princeton Regional will drop to 1,768 by 1990.

The School Board has hired a demographer to study these estimates in light of unanticipated developments. These include the prospect of Mt. Laurel housing, which could bring in a number of school-age children, and the overall surge of development in the area. The demographer's report is expected in October.

Dr. Carol Choye
"Close Look at Curriculum"

Curriculum to Be Eyed. School Superintendent Carol Choye, overseeing her first school opening in Princeton, plans to take a close look at curriculum this year. She wants to make certain that the curriculum articulates, that each program allows youngsters to go on to the next level, and that students move from level to level with all the skills they need.

Her goal, she says, is to work toward a planned curriculum that allows full scope both for academic freedom and the individual teacher's creativity.

"In education, teachers have different strengths," she said. "We want to give youngsters the full range of academic background as well as the creativity of their teachers."

The Creative Research and Writing Program (CRAW) will be expanded at the high school. This program, which blends social studies with English and emphasizes research and the use of computers, will now be oeprative in both ninth and tenth grades.

The Mastery Program will continue for its third year at the high school. This ninth- and tenth-grade program was designed to marshall the resources of the school, community and outside world to help black students master the basic skills needed to move forward in the educational process.

The program, however, has attracted few freshman students this year. Those who have expressed interest will be "folded into" the tenth grade, says Dr. Choye.

Earlier evaluations have shown that the effort has not entirely succeeded in preparing the students involved for college preparatory work. However, an improvement in attitudes and work habits had been noticed.

Dr Choye said an evaluation of those students who have gone through the program is expected to be done this year.

The Minority Student. The issue of how well Princeton Regional serves the black child was brought to the forefront two years ago with the publication of the School Board-commissioned Winikur Report. This confirmed the existence of a "significant educational problem": a disproportionate number of minority children classified as handicapped and in special education programs. It also called some such classifications "not justified."

The report also urged the formation of a pre-school program

Light Comedy Is Raised to Amusing Perfection In Ayckbourn's 'Round and Round the Garden'

The Norman Conquests, a trilogy of comedies by British playwright Alan Ayckbourn, consists of three independent plays, Table Manners, Living Together and Round and Round the Garden. Each presents a different perspective on the exploits of Norman, an upper-crust English ladies' man, and his relationships with his wife and his in-laws and spouses.

The three plays, presented in rotation, were a smash in London in 1974 and a hit on Broadway in 1975. A PBS television version, first aired in 1978, was a critical success.

I missed them all. And now that I've seen the Off-Broadstreet Theatre production of Round and Round the Garden, I'm really sorry. Round and Round the Garden is a funny play, written with wit that keeps a smile on your face as you appreciate the dialogue, and punctuated with enough farce to make you laugh out loud two or three times a scene. If you like light comedy, you'll love Off-Broadstreet's production, directed by Steve Bacher, with costumes by Bill Esher and Grant Prickett.

The whole play takes place in the garden of an English country house, nicely evoked in a set by Robert Thick. A Tudor-like facade of stucco and half-timbering renders the house; a few evergreens (donated by Kale's Nursery), a couple of strategically-placed benches and scattered concrete figures of a cherub, a gnome and a frog conjure up a prosperous middle-class garden.

The play opens with Tom, a bashful veterinarian, searching for an elusive patient: a cat with an injured paw. The cat belongs to Annie, with whom Tom is inarticulately in love. Annie, an unpretentious girl who lives in the country with her mother, is planning a clandestine weekend with Norman, her brother-in-law, who turns up in the garden with his suitcase as Tom wanders off-stage.

Richard Chibbaro, who has lively dark eyes and a soft black beard, plays Norman with a combination of ebullience and irony. As he himself points out, despite his relentless womanizing he is "strangely engaging." Later on in the play, his wife likens him to "an oversized, badly trained dog," and advises, "If you don't want him licking your face, don't offer him little tithits."

Norman vs. Tom. Annie has definitely been offering titbits, but with a certain naivete. "We're being terribly adult, aren't we?" she says to Norman as they review their weekend plans. Played by Cindy Kaczmarek, Annie looks as innocent as she sounds: pink-cheeked, she wears her curly hair in a casual ponytail and unselfconsciously clumps around the garden in jeans and "sensible" footwear. When she decides to dress up ("I think I'll make an effort; I haven't made one of my efforts in a while"), she wears a soft pink frock with ruffles and a chiffon scarf knotted in her hair.

It's not for Norman that Annie makes an effort, but for Tom. In a tricky role, Tom has to convince the audience that he's really the chap for Annie, while the other characters in the play run him down. Norman, for instance, tells Annie that "vet" stands for " 'Very Egocentric Twit' — he doesn't deserve you." Puttering around stage with a bemused look, Robert Bonotto manages to make it clear from the outset that Tom's reserve is more shyness than coldness, and by the second act, when the character comes into his own, he has the audience's sympathy.

He needs it. In the second act the plot revolves for a time around a misunderstanding between Tom and Norman's wife, Ruth, who makes the mistake of employing sarcasm while trying to plead Annie's case with Tom. The sarcasm goes over Tom's head and he concludes that Ruth is herself "carrying a torch" for him. It is a situation, as he says, "fraught with embarrassment" — but it galvanizes Tom into expressing himself.

Ruth, Sarah, Well Cast. Ruth, played by Lenore Andriel, is beautiful — naturally beautiful and beautifully turned out in a blue silk dress and an upswept hairdo. Deep-voiced and thoroughly sophisticated, she is a perfect mismatch for Tom, and her scene with him is wonderfully ridiculous as they talk at cross-purposes and set the scene for subsequent confusion.

Ruth has been summoned to the house by her sister-in-law Sarah, who has ferreted out Annie and Norman's plan to spend the weekend together and feels that Norman's wife "ought to know." Played with delightful disagreeableness by Rebecca Gleason, Sarah bears a physical resemblance to a pouter pigeon. Ostensibly all softness and femininity, she is a tyrant; and the night I saw the play, when her long-suffering husband, Reg, finally lost his temper in the last scene and shouted her down, the audience broke into spontaneous applause.

Reg, Norman's brother-in-law, is a real estate agent. He wears plaid sports coats and striped Bermuda shorts. Played by Jack Friedel with slicked-down hair and a handlebar moustache, Reg stoops a little and carries a paunch. When a drunken Norman announces that he is "filled with the urge to rape and pillage and conquer," Reg observes that he is "filled with the urge to put my feet up." Though he toys with the idea of an adulterous weekend, he observes to Norman that, really, "I would never ... The old urge, you keep it under control. I mean, you have to. Well, you may not have to, but I have to."

As they negotiate the ins and outs of Ayckbourn's comedic plot, Tom and Annie, Norman and Ruth, Sarah and Reg, constitute the whole cast. They and the Off-Broadstreet production are splendid. The only thing we might ask of them is this: Can they do the other two plays of The Norman Conquests trilogy soon?

Round and Round the Garden is playing at the Off-Broadstreet Theatre in Hopewell on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays through September 20. Performances begin at 8 p.m., with matinees on Sunday at 2. The price of admission includes a choice of desserts and beverages, available before the show. For information, call the box office at 466-2766.

PJ&B Announces Cast For "H.M.S. Pinafore"

PJ&B may have a new director — Francis X. Kuhn, who has replaced Milton Lyon after 26 years — and a new time slot — September, instead of February — but the essential thrust of putting on a polished production with amateur performers who are aided and abetted by professional directors and designers remains the same as it has since PJ&B was initiated more than 25 years ago.

Rehearsals are presently underway in locations all over town and in off hours for this year's PJ&B production of H.M.S. Pinafore, which will be presented Thursday through Sunday, September 25-28. In true PJ&B tradition, the cast is made up of amateur performers from the greater Princeton area who pursue other professions by day. Many are longtime G&S buffs whn have sung other G&S operettas in other areas.

Pinafore is Gilbert and Sullivan's tribute to maritime's glory days in the 1840's. Embracing the perennial dilemma of falling in love "above one's station," Pinafore tells the bittersweet story of Ralph Rackstraw (the brightest and handsomest lad in all the fleet) and his boundless love for his Captain's fair daughter Josephine. Alack, she loves him back, but is betrothed to the blundering "First Lord of the Queen's navee," Sir Joseph Porter.

From the quarterdeck of the Pinafore, all the sailors join the entourage of sisters, cousins and aunts of the First Lord's ship to help the two lovers defy authority and elope. A black cloud in the form of Dick Deadeye descends upon the clandestine getaway, but with a little help from sweet Little Buttercup, all's right in the end, and love reigns once again in full regalia aboard the Pinafore.

The cast includes Irving Bagedonow, a retired men's clothing salesman, as Sir Joseph Porter; Pamela Wilkison, coordinator for borrowing services at the national headquarters of of Recording for the Blind, as Josephine; Jay Doolan, an administrator with the state Department of Education, as Ralph Rackstraw; Michael Stebbins, an interventional radiologist in New Brunswick, as Dick Deadeye; and Christine Silva, a third-year master of divinity student at

Walter Nollner, Director of Music

Friday, Aug. 29, 1986

To all qualified choral singers in the Princeton area:

In the late 40's, I prepared a chorus for Pierre Monteux and the San Francisco Symphony for performances of the Berlioz "Requiem." I vowed at the time that I would conduct this great work one day myself, and I do believe that the time has come!

On the weekend of April 10-12, 1987, I intend to conduct the Berlioz in two performances. The chorus will be made up of the combined Princeton University Glee Club and Chapel Choir. The orchestra, with its sumptuous complement of brass and timpani, will be gathered from the University and from the area. The concerts will take place in Richardson Auditorium.

The Glee Club and Choir will total about 100 voices; about 50 more voices are needed to secure adequate balance with the orchestra. Therefore, I am publishing this invitation to audition for the additional choral complement, and putting it in TOWN TOPICS this summer, so that interested Princeton residents will have first chance.*

The additional chorus will rehearse no more than once a week during the major part of the preparation, and will combine with the Glee Club and Chapel Choir as we get closer to the concerts. Rehearsals will be arranged so that there is no, or minimal, conflict with the rehearsal schedules of choruses and choir to which individual members may already belong. This invitation is intended as a reasonable and pleasant solution to the performance problems represented by a specific, great work, NOT as the first step in the organization of a new community chorus.

If you are interested, and if you are an experienced soprano, alto, tenor or bass, please phone Mrs. Custis Clark at 452-3048 weekday mornings between 9 a.m. and noon through Sept. 17. She will take down information and assign you an audition time as soon as possible in September. Many thanks.

Sincerely yours,

Walter Nollner

Princeton Theological Seminary, as Buttercup.

Others are Jeffrey Winik as Captain Corcoran, Kimberly McCrudden as Tom Tucker, Robert Prowse as Bill Bobstay, and Raymond A. Camp as Bob Becket. For most of the cast, this is their first PJ&B production, although Ms. Silva, who taught in public, private and parochial schools in the area before deciding to enter Seminary, thinks it may have been prophetic that she played a nun in PJ&B's Sound of Music in 1972.

Mr. Bagedonow (Sir Joseph) says he originally studied for an operatic career and had professional enagagements "here and there" for eight years before giving it up to go into the family clothing business in New York City. Retired to Clearbrook 12 years ago, he says singing is his first love.

Ms. Wilkison (Josephine) claims to have been a G&S fan from age 5, and able to answer any G&S trivia question anyone wants to put to her. She has performed in several G&S operettas in southern California, where she lived before moving to this area.

Dr. Stebbins (Dick Deadeye) and his wife, who works in the Princeton University infirmary, are one of the several couples who responded to casting calls for H.M.S. Pinafore with the result that both were assigned either to the chorus or the cast. Both had performed G&S in Florida before moving to the Princeton area a little over a year ago. "I love Gilbert and Sullivan," Dr. Stebbins announced, "but this is the first time I have been on a stage of this caliber."

For Francis X. Kuhn, who directed Cinderella for the June Opera Festival and the 1983 and 1984 productions of A Christmas Carol, Pinafore represents the first time he has directed an entire cast of amateurs who are not undergraduates. Defining amateurs as "people who are here because they love it and not because it is their profession," he says he is finding the experience "enormously enjoyable."

Mr. Kuhn has directed three of the annual Wig and Mask shows at the University of Pennsylvania, and he recently directed The Woolgatherer and A Lesson from Aloes at the South Jersey Regional Theatre.

Tickets for H.M.S. Pinafore are on sale at the McCarter box office, 91 University Place, 452-5200. Tickets are priced at $14.50, $16.50, and $19.50. Performances are scheduled for Thursday and Friday, September 25 and 26, at 8; Saturday, September 27, at 2 and 8, and Sunday, September 28, at 2.

cover of CTU's fall newsletter/brochure, which is available by calling 924-3489. Twelve courses for students pre-K to 12th grade are offered by the team of seven professional actor/teachers at CTU's Princeton studio.

A mime workshop for eighth to 11th graders on Thursday evenings from 6:15 to 7:45 will be taught by Mark Schaeffer, founder of The Princeton Mime Company and CTU actor, workshop leader and playwright. Mr. Schaeffer has performed at theaters, coffeehouses and schools in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Chicago and Washington, D.C.

Laurie Hardy returns to CTU to teach fourth and fifth graders on Thursdays from 4:45 to 6. Students will be guided in developing plays with sets and performing them for one another in order to learn how to evaluate constructively their own and each other's work. Emphasis is on effectively communicating through acting and stagecraft. This is Mrs. Hardy's sixth year with CTU; her M.A. in theatre arts was earned at Pennsylvania State University.

An acting workshop for sixth through eighth graders on Wednesdays from 6 to 7:30 will be taught by CTU's new associate director/troupe director.

Creative drama courses, for which CTU is particularly known, include classes for 4-year-olds taught by Pam Hoffman; kindergarteners, Laurie Huntsman; first graders, Rochelle Jacobs; and second and third graders, also by Ms. Jacobs.

More specialized courses include "Musical Comedy Laboratory" for ninth to 12th graders, taught by CTU's executive director/education director Candace Sorensen, and "Video Workshop" for fourth to sixth graders by Pam Hoffman.

Three 30-session advanced courses are limited to 16 students each and require permission of the instructor. They are "Advanced Idea" for third and fourth graders by Candace Sorensen; Theatre Workshop II for eighth to 10th graders directeed by Pam Hoffman and assisted by composer-pianist Rita Asch; and Theatre Workshop I taught by David Crespy.

Creative Theatre classes will also be held this year in Plainsboro, for third to fifth graders with Mr. Crespy, and in Edison, for pre-K through third grade with Mrs. Sorenson.

Ballet School Begins Year With New Administrator

Mary Pat Robertson has been appointed to the newly created position of school administrative director of The School of Princeton Ballet.

Ms. Robertson will be responsible for the daily operations and programs of The School, coordinating the three studios in Cranbury, New Brunswick and Princeton to ensure the continuation and development of the teaching philosophy of The School of Princeton Ballet.

Ms. Robertson brings a wealth of experience to her position. Educated at Stanford University, she received her early dance training with June Runyon and danced with Tulsa Ballet Theatre. She went on to New York to study with Merce Cunningham, Douglas Wassell and David Howard and to perform with Carolyn Lord, Bertrand Raison, and Bryan Hayes.

Ms. Roberston taught ballet at New York University, Mason Gross School of the Arts and Princeton University. She also taught modern dance at Princeton.

As founder and director of Teamwork Dance, Ms. Roberston performs with the modern dance company throughout the state. Teamwork Dance is affiliated with Young Audiences and is funded in part by the N.J. State Council on the Arts. Ms. Robertson has also guest danced with Guelah Abrahams and Princeton Ballet.

Her first association with Princeton Ballet dates back to 1981, when she joined the faculty of The School. She has taught ballet and modern dance at all levels and will continue her teaching along with her new duties as school administrative director.

The School of Princeton Ballet begins its 33rd annual season on Monday. A series of Open Houses will be held, beginning on this Wednesday at the Cranbury studio, continuing on Thursday at the New Brunswick studio and ending on Friday at the Princeton studio. The open houses are from 4 to 6 each day and will feature dance class demonstrations, tours, refreshments and a chance to get acquainted with the faculty, Ms. Robertson and Director Judith Leviton.

Outdoor Dance Festival Planned for Saturday

The third annual end-of-summer modern dance festival will be held Saturday at 8 in the outdoor amphitheatre at Com-

The festival is free and will feature Teamwork Danec, Center Dance Collective, Katsiotis Dance Company, Joy Vrooman-Sayen, Patti Pardini and Carolyn Dorfman, with Ron Orlando on guitar. The rain date is Sunday, also at 8, but if it rains on Sunday, the festival will move inside the Arts Council building at 162 Witherspoon Street.

Players Plan Party To Open 54th Season

The Princeton Community Players will inaugurate their 54th season with a party, to which the public is invited, on Sunday from 4 to 6 p.m., at the Triangle-Broadmead Theatre at 171 Broadmead.

Chief purpose of the party will be to introduce members of the board of trustees and directors of the season's three plays, who will speak about the plays, their casting requirements, and opportunities to work backstage. There will also be entertainment and light refreshments.

MUSIC

Concert Will Highlight Award-Winning Artists

Four young New Jersey musicians, all top award winners in the nationwide Arts Recognition and Talent Search (ARTS) program, will perform a chamber music recital in Princeton on Sunday, September 14.

The recital, which will be held at 4 p.m. at the Westminster Choir College, is co-sponsored by the National Foundation for Advancement in the Arts (NFAA) and the Frank and Lydia Bergen Foundation, First Fidelity Bank, trustee.

The four musicians — Carol Rodland, David Winkelman, Ellen Payne and Sang Min Park — are part of an elite group: since 1982, only 56 musicians have been selected from among over 7,000 participants to receive top ARTS recognition, which includes a cash prize of up to $3,000 and many scholarship opportunities. The performers are all currently scholarship students studying at the Juilliard School.

Ms. Rodland, 18, a violist whose cash award as an ARTS winner (1986) was underwritten by a grant from the Bergen Foundation to NFAA, will be the featured performer. A 1986 graduate of Ridgewood High School, she has performed with the Philadelphia Orchestra as well as other orchestras in the New York metropolitan area.

Ms. Rodland will perform the Eccles Sonata in G Minor for Viola and Piano with Mr. Winkelman, 22, of Haddonfield. Mr. Winkelman is a pianist and has also soloed with the Philadelphia Orchestra as well as performing many recitals.

Also on the program will be the Schumann Piano Quartet in E-flat Major. Joining Ms. Rodland and Mr. Winkelman will be violinist Ellen Payne, 20, of Hackensack, who has performed with the Aspen Concert Orchestra and the Cleveland Philharmonic Orchestra among others; and cellist Sang Min Park, 18, of Bergenfield, who through the ARTS program was named a 1985 Presidential Scholar in the Arts. His other accomplishments include performing with the Korean Broadcasting Symphony and receiving a 1986 New Jersey Governor's Award in the Arts.

NFAA and the Bergen Foundation are cooperating to provide opportunities for young musicians in New Jersey. One of the priorities of the Bergen Foundation is to recruit non-profit organizations such as NFAA in assisting talented musicians from New Jersey to reach their full potential.

The concert will be held in the Bristol Chapel and seating is limited. For information about the concert or applying to ARTS, contact NFAA at (212) 719-3500; 1500 Broadway, Suite 808, New York, New York 10036.

Students may apply to ARTS in dance, theater, visual arts and writing, in addition to music. Awards range from $500 to $3,000. Deadline for application to the 1986-87 ARTS program is October 1.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

DOGWOOD DECLINE:

with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates

Dogwood decline has been apparent throughout the Northeast United States for the past 5-6 years. Numerous fungi have been isolated from the declining trees, but most researchers agree the primary problem has been ENVIRONMENTAL STRESS The extensive drought seasons and severe winter weather during the last few years are now taking their toll. The weakened trees are subject to attack by Borers and Discula (Dogwood Anthracnose). This will give you symptoms of extensive lower branch dieback, clusters of water sprouts on the main trunk and leaf spots. The branches continue to decline from the ground upward and the tree is eventually killed.

For best results in combating this disorder, remove dead branches during dry weather, control borers and maintain optimum growing conditions by watering and fertilization.

The Kousa Dogwood (Cornus Kousa) does not seem to be affected by the decline which may be a good alternative to the flowering dogwoods.

Contact WOODWINDS for your fall feeding program (924-3500).

strumentalists are invited to audition. There is a particular need for those who play percussion, tuba, trombone, trumpet, bassoon, French horn, and double bass.

The Youth Orchestra draws its members from more than 25 Delaware Valley high schools and colleges. Under the directorship of Dr. Matteo Giammario, the orchestra is entering its 26th season. Its home base is The Lawrenceville School, where practices are held weekly.

New Associate Conductor At Chamber Symphony

The Chamber Symphony has appointed Mark Laycock as associate conductor.

Mr. Laycock made his British debut with the Philharmonic Orchestra at the Royal Festival Hall last February. He has also been guest conductor with the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Aspen Music Festival and the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra. He is a winner of the Leopold Stokowski Memorial Competition in association with the Philadelphia Orchestra and has the honor of being the only conductor to have been invited for two consecutive years to participate in the Rupert Foundation's International Conducting Awards.

He has also lectured and been host on his own radio show and has been broadcast nationally in the United States conducting the Philadelphia Orchestra. After conducting a performance with the Trenton Symphony in 1983, he was appointed permanent conductor, making him the youngest person to hold such a post with a metropolitan orchestra in the United States.

Born in 1957, Mr. Laycock trained as a violist under the tutelage of the Curtis String Quartet.

Conservatory Offerings Especially for Youngsters

Along with its regular course of private musical instruction, the Westminster Conservatory will offer a variety of classes and group instruction for children of all ages this fall semester, which begins September 11.

The most recent addition to the program is the student orchestra, open to students ages 8 to 14. Barbara Barstow will conduct the orchestra, which will rehearse Wednesdays at 5. Concerts have been scheduled throughout the year.

The group piano program has been revamped to include 5- to 9-year-olds. Students benefit from the individual attention of private lessons, plus the motivation and inspiration provided by the group instruction experience. This program is designed to give beginning piano students a solid foundation in keyboard skills and harmony.

The certificate program, also new this year, is a comprehensive music curriculum offering a structure and guidelines for students who wish to measure their musical progress. Open to all students age 7 through adult, the program has requirements for private instruction in the major instrument, musicianship classes (including music theory, ear training and sight-singing), ensemble, music literature and recital participation. Students may enter the program at any level (based on placement testing) and are encouraged to progress at their own rate.

Vocal training for young singers is designed to encourage and develop the singing ability and musical skills of students in the upper elementary and junior high grades. Vocal exercises, work on correct posture and breathing, body movement and speech chant will all be taught in conjunction wtih various types and styles of music.

Registration for fall classes is now in progress. For further information, call the Conservatory office at 921-7104.

Pressure Will Be on Tigers' Defense to Hold That Line, To Give Rebuilt Offensive Backfield Time to Improve

The saying that a good defense will win more football games for you than a good offense has certainly proved true over the last several seasons for the Princeton football team. The last five provide some interesting figures.

Beginning in 1981 when quarterbacks such as Bob Holy, Brent Wood and Doug Butler gave the Tigers the ability to score from anywhere on the field, high-scoring contests were the rule rather than the exception. However, the won-lost record during that period was a sub-par, 21-27-1.

Some of the victories were memorable, like the 46-28 come-from-behind triumph over Bucknell in 1983, but the

SPORTS

Orange and Black did its best in the low-scoring affairs. More than half, 12, of its wins in that five-year span came when the defense held the opponent to fewer than three touchdowns. It lost only twice when it gave up less than 21 points.

The shoot-outs are exciting to watch, but Princeton comes up a little short on firepower more often than not. Last year, for example, it dropped a 49-44 decision to Colgate and a 33-28 verdict to William & Mary.

The Tigers also were involved in two distinct defensive struggles and won them both. In the opening game at Hanover, they limited Dartmouth to just a field goal and won, 10-3. A month later at Cambridge, both defensive units were superb through four quarters, and Old Nassau needed a free kick return for a touchdown by Tom Urquhart to pull out an 11-6 triumph.

When the switch was made from a 5-2 alignment to a 4-3 in Frank Navarro's last year, Princeton's defense improved, allowing 192 points in nine games. It improved on that a little last fall, allowing an average of three touchdowns per game.

ONE END SECURED: Senior co-captain Ned Elton will anchor the defensive line from his position at end. He has been a solid performer at that spot since his freshman year, when he won an award for defensive excellence.

Buying Time. For one reason or another, defensive units are always being called upon to buy time for the offense. A year ago, Ron Rogerson hoped his defense would hold while his offense learned the Wing-T.

Now, Rogerson will be hoping the same thing, because it will take time for an almost totally new backfield to develop an efficient offense. A new quarterback will be at the helm, and Craig Fitchett is the only holdover at running back.

In addition to points allowed, another key indication of a team's defensive performance is turnovers. This category, which includes opponents' fumbles recovered plus interceptions, was on the plus side for Princeton last year for the first time since 1981, the last time the Tigers achieved a winning record.

Rogerson's defense was credited with 34 turnovers, while the 10 opponents accumulated 23, for a plus 11. In 1982, when the Orange and Black finished 3-7 it was a minus 38. A good defense will create turnovers, which often will switch the momentum of a game to its favor.

Who's Back on Defense. Looking over the defense, position by position, senior co-captain Ned Elton (6-2, 220) is the lone returning player from last year's front four who also included Rick Blosser, Jon Baniewicz and Petrucci. Elton has been impressive since his first season at Old Nassau when he won the Harland, "Pink" Baker Award for defensive exellence on the freshman team.

He was a steady performer in his first season as a starter, gaining credit for 42 tackles and sacking opposing quarterbacks three times. The other defensive end slot is up for grabs.

Senior Ted Markow (6-1, 220) and junior David Rose (6-2, 232) were second on the depth chart a year ago, and made significant contributions with 11 tackles apiece. Bart Stoehr (6-1, 233) also saw some action at defensive end, but his most memorable moment came when his bone-crunching tackle caused a fumble on the second half kickoff against Yale.

Senior Jim Soss (6-2, 238), a reliable back-up last season, should get a starting role at one of the tackle positions. Junior Chris Borman (6-3, 240) and sophomore Rob Henricks (6-3, 222), both "Pink" Baker award winners as freshmen, will contend for the other spot. Junior Sean Miller (6-2, 241) adds depth at the position, and another sophomore Rob Vanden

Tigers on TV Twice

The Public Broadcasting Service and the Ivy League athletic directors have again reached an agreement whereby PBS will televise an Ivy Game of the Week for 10 consecutive Saturdays.

Complaints of a couple of AD's have led to the decision to televise each team twice, with November 15 left as an open date. The game with the most direct bearing on the outcome of the league race will be shown on that Saturday.

The Princeton-Brown (Oct. 4) and Princeton-Penn (Nov. 1) contests will again be aired this fall. Last year they were televised from Providence and Philadelphia, this time both will be at Palmer Stadium.

Brian Dowling, a name familiar to many Ivy football fans (he was Yale's quarterback a decade or so ago) will replace Marty Glickman as the play-by-play man; Bob Casciola will continue the fine job he does as color commentator.

Other games to be televised include: Sept. 20, Penn at Dartmouth; Sept. 27, Lafayette at Columbia; Oct. 11, Cornell at Harvard; Oct. 18, Brown at Cornell; Oct. 25, Yale at Penn; Nov. 8, Columbia at Dartmouth; and Nov. 22, Yale at Harvard.

Channels 12, 13 and 39 will carry the games in this area; Channel 12 may tape some to be shown later that day.

Linebackers: With DiTommasso and Keller gone, only senior Matt Heisler (6-1, 210) returns from last year's outstanding linebacker corps. Heisler is the leading returning tackler on the squad.

Three juniors are expected to battle for the other two spots. They include Matt Whalen (6-0, 206), Pete Milano (6-0, 208) and Mike D'Emilio (6-0, 212). D'Emilio also did a fine job as Princeton's snapper on punts last season, recording more than 60 without a miscue. Another candidate for linebacker, tabbed as one of the sophomores to watch, is Ray Ryan (6-1, 214).

Backfield: The situation is brighter in the defensive backfield, which will be anchored by senior co-captain Kevin Armstrong (6-0, 184). A starter at cornerback for the first three games in 1985, Armstrong went down with a knee injury in the mud and rain at Providence, and had to miss the rest of the season. Still his teammates thought enough of his character and ability to honor him with the co-captaincy. Incidentally, this is the second consecutive year that both co-captains have come from the defensive unit.

There is strength at the other cornerback position as well, with the return of Dean Cain (6-0, 180). Cain was one of only seven league sophomores to gain all-Ivy status, earning honorable mention. He intercepted five passes, three in the final game against Cornell, recorded 38 tackles and recovered a fumble. Another junior, Sean Brennan (5-9, 170) filled in capably when Armstrong went down, intercepting three aerials.

I'VE GOT IT: Senior linebacker Matt Heisler was never very far from the ball last year, and he'll be looking to create more turnovers this fall, as one of the few returning starters on the defensive unit.

There is less experience at safety, where both starters, including Anderson, who won the position as a sophomore, are gone. Junior Wit Hall (6-0, 180) saw the most action a year ago. Behind him are senior Chip Nuzzo (5-10, 200) and classmates Dave Wilson (6-0, 195) and Derek Wassink (5-11, 170). Another sophomore to watch is Steve Watkins 6-2, 187).

The kicking game is in good shape, with a pair of experienced performers returning. Senior punter Rob DiGiacomo (6-3, 198) will start his third year in that position, and should be ready for a big season. Averaging more than 35 yards per kick, he has never had a punt blocked.

Junior place-kicker Rob Goodwin (6-2, 185) was impressive in his first varsity season last fall, hitting on 50 percent of his field goal tries, one a 44-yarder against Colgate. His perfect record on extra-point attempts, 23 of 23, extended Princeton's consecutive extra point streak (by kicking). Dating back to 1982, it now stands at 70.

Since switching from the five-two to the four-three alignment in 1984, Princeton's defense has improved immeasurably. In the 1982 and '83 seasons, the Tigers were giving up an average of more than 30 points per game.

That fell to just over 21 points in 1984 and stayed there last season. One of the more interesting statistics of 1985 shows that the points scored by the Orange and Black matched exactly the number allowed: 212. That's a good reason for a 5-5 finish.

The first real evaulation for the defense, and the offense as well, will come in 10 days on Saturday, September 14. As they did a year ago, the Tigers will scrimmage Springfield College in Palmer Stadium that afternoon. In past years the scrimmage was scheduled earlier in the pre-season and held on a practice field, but Rogerson likes the idea of making the scrimmage an "11th game" on the schedule.

It will come just a week before the opener against Cornell in Ithaca, and the feeling here is that the defense better be ready to shut down the Big Red offense if the Tigers are to have any shot at winning.

Next Week: The Opposition

St. Louis Drops Dreiband

He survived longer than his classmate, Doug Butler, who was cut a couple of weeks ago by the Giants, and it looked like Eric Dreiband might just make it to opening day as a player in the National Football League.

But the dream ended last week for the 6'4, 275-lb offensive lineman, who had graduated from Princeton in June. When the St. Louis Cardinals, needed to shave their roster from 60 players to 50, Dreiband was one of those let go. He had survived until the next to last round. A final cut to 45 players came earlier this week.

Dreiband, who had signed as a free agent in July, commented that the first week of practice in 100-degree heat and humdity was the hardest thing he had ever done in his life. "I could hardly breathe in my full pads," he said.

Dreiband's release leaves no Princeton graduates currently playing in the league. Bob Holly was let go in June by the Washington Redskins.

Smaller Than Expected Turnout First Problem For Kurt Vollherbst, New PHS Football Coach

Among its many aspects, football is a game of numbers. One number that concerns Kurt Vollherbst, the first-year coach of the Princeton High football team, is the size of his squad.

Only 25 to 30 have responded to his call for practice, some 15 less than last year. "I was anticipating more," said Vollherbst, who was a defensive coach for the Princeton University 150-pound football team before being named July 2 to succeed Bill Cirullo as coach of the Little Tigers.

The unexpected loss of three guards, including veterans Alex Murgo (knee injury), and Doug Gray (shoulder injury) plus Rob Lester (mono which developed into hepatitis) has only exacerbated the problem.

Indeed, Vollherbst views the lack of depth as his biggest challenge. "We have to get what players we have working as a team," he said. "If small in numbers, we have to have all 25 working as a unit. That's very important; it's one of the things we have to do."

The situation, in Vollherbst's view, makes trainer Eric Hoover "the most important person on our staff. We have to have our people healthy. We're going to have two-way players; there's no way getting around it."

The only lasting solution to shrinking numbers, feels Vollherbst, is to rebuild from the bottom up — which is why he is stressing building up the freshman football team.

"I understand they haven't won a game in three years," commented Vollherbst. "It's important to get them and keep them. If they have a positive experience coming up, when they get to be sophomores and juniors they'll want to stay out." The freshman team plays a full, nine-game schedule just as the varsity does.

On Saturday, the team — which has been on double sessions and eating lunch together — held its first intra-squad scrimmage. Vollherbst termed it a half-scrimmage because he does not have the numbers to pit his 11 best people going against someone else.

That opportunity will come Saturday when PHS scrimmages Delaware Valley High School. Two more are scheduled — South Hunterdon Tuesday and New Brunswick next Saturday — before the opener Friday night, September 19, against McCorristin on the Iron Mikes' home field.

The Little Tigers' home opener will be the following Friday against Ewing under the lights on Princeton University's Frelinghuysen Field.

PHS FOOTBALL CO-CAPTAINS: Wingback Pal McKellar (left) and tailback Mike Riddick are co-captains of the Princeton High football team that hopes to reverse last year's losing season under new coach Kurt Vollherbst.

After the scrimmages, Vollherbst reports he will have a better feel for the team. "Right now," he admits, "it's tough to say how we are developing."

He has never, he adds, been a big proponent of taking 45 minutes and hitting the whole practice, preferring instead to do a lot of drill work and concentrate on technique.

No Glaring Weaknesses. "I think we have a good nucleus coming back to worth with," was Vollherbst's assessment after one week of practice. "We have a good solid backfield; I don't see any glaring weaknesses."

Trained primarily as a defensive coach, Vollherbst states there will be no big offensive changes. The I slot or I pro set is the formation the Little Tigers will operate out of most of the time.

Says he, "I am not a big proponent of three yards and a cloud of dust. I feel we have to run well but we will definitely throw the ball to keep people from stacking up in front of us. We'll still stay with the options."

Defensively, Vollherbst says he plans to go with a 5-2. Five linemen and two linebackers with four in the secondary.

Riddick, McKellar Captains. Co-captains of the team are Mike Riddick and Patrick McKellar. In Riddick, Vollerbst has one of the premier tailbacks in the county. A punishing, straight-ahead runner, the 6-1½, 215-pound Riddick rushed for 753 yards on 129 carries for a 5.8 average and eight touchdowns.

McKellar, a three-year starter, the last of four McKellar brothers to play football at PHS, is a 6-0, 180-pound wingback who scored one TD and rushed for 66 yards in 18 carries last fall. Last year, Cirullo had predicted of McKellar, "He'll be good this year, awesome the next."

Vollherbst has also announced that, unlike Cirullo, who was content to alternate quarterbacks until mid-season, he will make a choice between Tim Rumer and Paul Fisher.

"Both are talented athletes," Vollherbst confirmed. "Both do good things but both do different things well. Tim is the better passer, Paul the better runner." Whoever he decides on, Vollherbst stated the other will definitely have a starting berth on offense. Last year, Rumer ended up at end.

All of which means, barring injury, Vollherbst has a backfield that is three-fourths blue chippers.

Other pluses, in addition to a solid backfield, that Vollherbst can point to are the use of a home field (PHS had to play every game away last season, while its own field was resurfaced) and a full staff of five assistant coaches.

On the debit side, the line is less experienced and more vulnerable and there is the thinness of the squad which allows for no injuries.

On the latter, Vollherbst commented, "The numbers thing doesn't bother me, except that we have to have everyone healthy. What I want is 30 dedicated kids who want to play football. Who will give me their best effort on every play of the game."

He promises to do the same. When asked about winning, he replied, "Winning? I'm not worried about winning. These guys know I'm out there giving it my best shot."

Next week, TOWN TOPICS will discuss the candidates.

Arendt Is One for Two In U.S. Tennis Open

Hun School senior Nicole Arendt last week advanced to the second round of the U.S. Open Tennis Tournament at the National Tennis Center in New York before being eliminated by Robin White of San Jose, Ca.

It was quite an achievement for the South Brunswick resident who celebrated her 17th birthday last Monday, the day after she had qualified for the tournament.

In her first-round match, Arendt used her strong serve-and-volley game to defeat 21-year-old Anne Minter of Australia, 7-5, 2-6, 6-2.

After the first round, Arendt was one of only two qualifiers to advance to the second round. In her next match, Arendt pushed the 22-year-old White in the opening set before losing 7-5. She won the next set, 6-4, to even the match, but lost the third one, 6-1, when White started to pass her with more consistency as Arendt came to the net.

Arendt had stated that her goal in participating in her first U.S. Open was to see if she could play with the pros. The answer: yes.

To reach the main draw, Arendt had to win three qualifying matches — a greater achievement, she felt, than her first-round victory.

Ficarro's Win Playoff In Women's Softball

Steve Ficarro's Auto Body women's softball team won the playoff championship of the Mercer County Women's A League last week when it defeated 3 Seasons two straight in the best-of-three series.

Ficarro's won, 7-4, and 4-1, to sweep its fourth playoff championship in a row. In capturing the regular season title as well, Ficarro's claimed its fifth league crown in the past seven years.

Ficarro's won despite the absence of three starters from its lineup and manager Bob Smyth.

In the 7-4 clincher, Ficarro's took a 2-1 lead after two innings off a two-run double by Andrea Loretangeli, but 3 Seasons scored in both the third and fourth innings to go ahead, 4-2.

In the sixth, Ficarro's Dee Discavage drove in two runs to tie the score at 6.

In the top of the seventh, Ficarro's loaded the bases and Donna Nicholson cleared them with a game-winning double. Nicholson, Grace Durland, Discavage and Dot Krumpfer all had two hits for the victors. Louann Slocum-Robidoux was the winning pitcher

In the first game, Slocum-Robidoux, filling in for Ficarr's mound ace Clare Baxter, limited 3 Seasons to five hits.

Her teammates backed her with a 15-hit attack that included a pair of triples by Cindy Lombardo, who batted 4-for 4.

to help those children who enter kindergarten less prepared than their peers.

A five-week summer program for these youngsters was held for the second year in a row this past summer. Thirteen children met at Riverside School in classes designed to strengthen their social and academic skills.

———

Dr. Choye said she had visited the program and had been impressed with the quality of the teaching and the involvement of the children. "The teachers felt this was beneficial in the transition to kindergarten," she said.

She discussed with the teachers whether there should perhaps be a larger program for at-risk youngsters, perhaps one running an entire school year. The Board is expected to discuss this issue later in the year.

Dr. Choye noted that the high school was in the process of hiring a student assistance counsellor to identify and help youngsters with alcohol or drug problems. This past summer saw a series of staff development conferences geared to helping teachers work with such youngsters.

The coming year will focus, too, on an evaluation of the entire Winikur Report and the Long-Range Plan. "We want to really evaluate what we have done," says the new superintendent. 'We will look at all levels, including the high achiever, the child in the middle, and the child who needs special assistance." The Board is also expected to examine the entire budget and planning process.

Calendar Change. Princeton Regional has announced a change in the calendar that eliminates nine early closings in elementary and middle schools. Five all-day staff development closings have been added. They are September 2, October 6, November 3, January 12, and February 2. Elementary and middle school students will not attend schools these days because teachers will be involved in training.

And Princeton Regional students will pay more for their lunches this year. The cost for a school lunch has gone up from $1.20 to $1.30 in elementary and middle school and from $1.30 to $1.40 in high school. Milk will continue to cost 25 cents.

Lunches will be offered for 40 cents or free to families who qualify. Information and applications are available in each school office.
